Patrol, highway officials inspect problem bridge area

By ELLIS CUEVAS
State highway officials made a visual inspection of the steel grate atop the I-10 bridge over Pearl River Thursday morning. The grate, especially when wet from rain, has been cited as cause of recent accidents, including one which resulted in the death of a 13-year-old passenger on a motorcycle driven by his father.

Making the inspection were Robert Mosley, State Highway Department engineer; Richard Turner, department resident engineer; George Saxon, chief inspector for the Southern District of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol; and Inspector N.F. McCardle of MHP's District Eight.

Hancock Coroner Carl Banderet had stated after the fatality that the metal grids on the bridge were "extremely dangerous whenever it rains."

Highway patrolmen investigating accidents on the bridge also have cited the grid as a contributing factor in accidents.

Mosley said there are only a few bridges in the state with the steel grids and that Highway Department researchers have been working for years trying to come-up with a permanent solution.

Turner added, "Several years ago we had welded metal studs on the US-90 bridge over the Bay of St. Louis, and in only a week they had worn down."

A new substance is being tried on the I-10 bridge over the Pascagoula River to solve the skidding problem.

Mosley reported, "The substance is like that used on aircraft carriers, oil drilling rigs, and oil tankers. It is very expensive and we have only applied the substance for several weeks and are studying the results."

McCardle added, "If motorists maintain the proper speeds, there is no problem with the metal grids even in rainy weather."

The officials noted the metal gridding was installed on the bridges because they are designed to be opened on special occasions. Metal is used instead of concrete because of the lighter weight.

Another substance is also scheduled to be tried by the highway department for the elimination of skidding on the grids.

The engineers said other states also have the problems with the skidding on the bridge grids and are also researching the matter.

Records indicate there were two accidents in 1981 on the grid area of the Pearl River bridge, one in dry weather and the other when it was raining.

Traffic count over the Pearl River bridge was estimated by the officials at 12,000 to 15,000 vehicles per day.

McCardle said he is hoping a commuter train would be put into service between Mobile and New Orleans.

He added, "Traffic counts will leap in 1984 with the World's Fair scheduled for New Orleans."

Signs are posted on the Pearl River structure warning motorists that portions of the roadway is slippery when wet.

Interim superintendent claims:

School board member's son illegally hired as teacher

By BRENT MACEY
Action taken by the Hancock County School Board following executive session Saturday revealed an employee of the school district, who is the son of a school board member, has been illegally employed as a teacher in the district and has also been overpaid in respect to a salary based on years of teaching experience.

Saturday, the school board met in executive session to discuss several matters relating to school personnel.

When the meeting reopened to the public, it was revealed that Daryl Ladner, the son of school board member Woodrow Ladner, has been teaching drafting as a full time teacher at Hancock North Central since March 1, 1981.

A report of events leading to Ladner's employment, which was entered into the minutes of Saturday's meeting, states Ladner did not have a valid teaching certificate as required by state law when he was employed. He later obtained that certificate July 1, 1981.

In addition, the report, which was prepared by Interim Superintendent William Haddock, states Ladner was paid a salary based upon a 12 month contract claiming seven years teaching experience.

That contract was $12,000 a year and Ladner was apparently paid for the months of March, April, May and June and July.

According to Haddock, the contract should have been based on zero years of teaching experience or $14,787 annually.

The report recommends Ladner sign a contract for the 1982-83 year based on a salary of $14,787 annually. "He hasn't signed the contract yet," Haddock said after the meeting.

He noted Ladner's check for the month of August is being held by the district until that contract is signed.

Haddock also suggests that the amount Ladner was overpaid for the month of July be deducted from the Ladner's proposed salary of $14,787.

Haddock said he is not responsible or liable for the months of March, April, May, and June, since he was appointed interim superintendent Aug. 1, of this year for the 1982-83 school year which began in July.

The report states Ladner was employed by the board as a substitute teacher on February 26, 1982 for the remainder of the 1981-82 school year.

However, in a recess meeting, March 12, 1982 the board approved hiring Ladner as a full time teacher for the remainder of that school year.

According to the report, the action was recommended by former School Superintendent Billy D. Sills but not by D.E. Hillman, principal at Hancock North Central.

Sills, who was replaced by Haddock in August after pleading guilty to seven counts of fraud-embezzlement, could not be reached for comment Saturday to confirm or deny that allegation.

Haddock stated he has talked with Hillman who has denied ever recommending Ladner be hired.

Haddock said Saturday that minutes

$200 million suit filed against Bay

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Sea Coast Echo learned Saturday that a $200 million class action suit has been filed against the City of Bay St. Louis by a group of residents in the city's annexed area.

The suit was filed in the United States District Court, Southern District of Mississippi in Biloxi.

The action stems from 1967 Hancock County Chancery Court Decree in which the City of Bay St. Louis was ordered, "...within a period of five years, or earlier when and if economically feasible, (to) provide the following improvements to the City of Bay St. Louis: installation of gas, water and sewer lines, and street lighting."

The decree further ordered, "That in order to provide for the orderly development of utilities and hard surfacing of streets, drainage and other services to the proposed annexed territory, the City will, within a period of six months from the date of this Decree, employ a competent and qualified firm to make a thorough and complete study of the entire annexed area for the installation of gas and water (including adequate fire hydrants) and sewer lines followed by a major street and drainage improvement program..."

Bay St. Louis Mayor protem Wilmer Seymour Saturday said he was unaware that the suit had been filed.

He said, "I know nothing about the suit, I heard rumors a while back, but nothing recently."

Harry Farve, president of the Bay St. Louis City Council, stated late Saturday, "I heard on the street they filed the suit, but I have not received any official papers on it, nor has any other council member to my knowledge."

Michael M. Harris, president of the Annexed Citizens Committee, one of the plaintiffs in the suit, emphasized Saturday, "This suit is not against the individuals in office, but against them in their representative capacities."

Other plaintiffs include Dr. Andrew Martinolich, Robert Heitzmann, Charles Hirstius, and Mrs. Norma B. Favre.

The City of Bay St. Louis recently made application for a $2.5 million loan from Farmers Home Loan Association for the construction of a sewer line on the outskirts of the city limits.

If the court finds the plaintiffs are not citizens of the City of Bay St. Louis, the primary contention of the plaintiffs, the petitioners request that the court:

—Enjoin "...the Defendants from continuing the policy, practice, custom, and usage of taxing citizens in an alleged annexed area of the City of Bay St. Louis, Hancock County, Mississippi."

—Require "...Defendants to award and repay together with interest, penalties, and damages, all taxes illegally collected..."

The suit states that the city recently had applied for the $2.5 million in federal funds for the purpose of rendering municipal services to an area not included within the city limits of Bay St. Louis.

The petition requests further, if the plaintiffs are legally found to be residents of Bay St. Louis, that the court enjoin the city from using forthcoming federal funds or any other money except to provide the municipal services alleged to be due the annexed area residents.

The petition alleges, "...that the Federal funds now being sought by the Defendants be allocated for use in providing municipal services to them, Defendants are on record as opposing same and have designated the use of said Federal funds principally to provide municipal services to a private enterprise real estate development located outside the boundaries of the City of Bay St. Louis..."

In the suit Plaintiff's pray: "...(e) If Plaintiffs and the class they represent are not citizens of the City of Bay St.

Highway commissioner promises improved US-90 traffic signals

Bob Joiner, Southern District highway commissioner, reports protective left turn lights will be added to the traffic signals on US-90 at Waveland Avenue in September.

Joiner said the protective turn lights will be for motorists east and west-bound on US-90.

Joiner praised Rep. Joseph Compretta and Mayor John Longo for their cooperation in working with him in having this protective device installed.

He said the decision to make the change came after traffic engineers studied the traffic volume at the intersection and the number of left turn accidents this year and in the past.

Bay family loses third member to accidents

By BRENT MACEY

A Bay St. Louis man, whose two sons were killed in different car related accidents in 1978 and 1979, died Thursday from injuries sustained in a car accident in Pass Christian.

Milton Payne, 61, of 415 Washington Street died at approximately 8 p.m. in Gulfport Memorial Hospital from massive chest injuries sustained when his car struck a light pole on North Street at 6:45 p.m.

Cause of the accident has not been determined.

A Harrison County Sheriff's report states Payne was traveling west on North Street when 1981 Chevrolet Citation he was driving struck a light pole some 30 feet east of 227 North Street.

Mr. Payne was the only person in the automobile.

Ed Little, Harrison County coroner, said he heard third hand that a witness saw Payne slump over at the wheel just prior to the accident.

Although a heart attack is suspected of causing the accident, Little said facilities are not available for an autopsy and that none will be performed to verify that suspicion.

Four years ago in 1978, Keith Payne, the son of Milton Payne, died from injuries sustained when he was struck by a automobile on North Street in Pass Christian while walking to work Dec. 19.

Milton Payne's other son, Keith Payne, was killed Dec. 21, 1979 in car accident in Joliet, Ill.

Funeral services are today at 8 p.m. in the Valena C. Jones Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis with visitation following the funeral.

Burial will be Monday in Cedar Rest Cemetery. The funeral procession will leave the church for the cemetery at 11 a.m.

American Cancer Society seeking local study volunteers

The American Cancer Society in September will initiate one of the largest epidemiologic research studies ever to be carried out in the United States.

This study, Cancer Prevention Study II (CPS II), is designed to examine the relationship between environmental and lifestyle factors and the development of cancer.

The plan is to ask more than one million Americans to complete a four-page confidential questionnaire, and then to follow these people for at least the next six years.

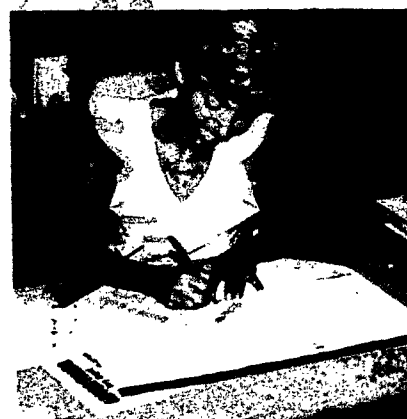

"We need permanent residents of Hancock County to participate as volunteer 'researchers,'" said Betsy Nolan of Diamondhead, Hancock study chairman.

The researchers will enlist friends, neighbors, relatives and fellow citizens to enroll in CPS II.

Then, every other year for the next six years, the volunteer researchers will keep track of these one million Americans, she explained.

"Please join the fight against cancer. Being a part of this study will only take a few minutes of your time," said Nolan.

For more information, call Nolan at 258-7702.

Q. Is there an attic ventilator recall underway? My neighbor says he got a notice about his, but I haven't heard anything about mine.

A. Some of the attic ventilators sold by Sears, Roebuck and Co. through catalogues and retail stores in 1980 - '81 are being recalled. The units were made by Emerson Electric Co. and sold for about $70 each.

An identification plate on the back of the motor on each unit has the model number 758.648360. The units have a light-gray molded poly-vinyl outer hood.

About 11,500 of the ventilators were sold. They are being recalled because there have been several consumer reports that they have been involved in fires.

Owners of the units are asked to call Emerson toll-free at (800) 325-4130 for help.

Hancock commission expands channel maintenance project

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is expanding a Port Blenville Industrial Park entrance channel maintenance dredging project.

Originally, the commission approved removing an underwater shoal blocking the channel where it intersects Cross Bayou.

But a representative of an engineering firm hired by the commission to formulate specifications for the project told the commissioners at a Thursday night meeting that silt blocks a nearby portion of the channel in the East Pearl River.

Commission members and employees wrestled with technicalities and methods to place legal advertisements seeking bids for the dredging work and an earth-moving project for dike construction in a nearby land spoils containment area just north of the channel.

W. Wilson Webre, commission executive director, Friday confirmed Gonzales Marine Enterprises, Inc. at the industrial park must have a 16-foot entrance channel depth by early December to move floating oil rigs to and from its Blenville work site.

He estimated the project should be completed just before December if no problems are encountered in any phase of the work.

Webre Thursday night told the commissioners the county's dredging permit would have to be amended by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Vicksburg office to include the Pearl River work before the project begins.

He did not know if the Corps would have to again issue public notices for amended permit which could delay the project.

The dredging will restore the channel's 16-foot depth, he noted.

A. Garner Russell of A. Garner Russell and Associates of Gulfport, project engineer, reported some 30,000-cubic-yards of material will be removed from the Cross Bayou area of the channel and about 10,000-cubic-feet from the Pearl.

Commissioner Dave McDonald suggested the work be advertised in several newspapers since no dredging companies are located in Hancock, but Webre said the Corps notifies companies and Russell reported his company also informs dredging firms so they may bid on such projects.

Webre and Commissioner Oliver Frierson urged the commissioners to request the County Board of Supervisors' approval of the commission's suggestion to expand the project before the legal advertisements are placed.

But Robert Genin, a commission attorney, said board approval, although customarily sought for various projects, was not necessary in this instance.

"A lot of things are sent to the board as a custom, but you don't have to do it," he stated.

Commissioner Victor Franckiewicz noted the supervisors approved the Cross Bayou dredging with the intent of restoring water access to the park and access is not possible without the Pearl dredging work.

Frierson stated, "I hate to see do one thing and then see it come out in the paper (The Sea Coast Echo) that we're doing something else."

But Franckiewicz said the additional dredging work is not significant in that type of project, but the time factor is crucial and waiting for the supervisor's ok next week could delay the project and cause problems for Gonzales if the deepened channel is not completed by December.

All the commissioners except Frierson voted for placing the amended dredging project advertisements in The Echo.

Woody Stieffel, commission engineer technician, said the dike structure for the spoils area would have to be redesigned to accommodate the additional 10,000-cubic-feet of material.

The technician is designing the spoils area dike.

Webre said a track backhoe or dragline is capable of constructing the dike.

He suggested the project be advertised seeking bids on an hourly basis, but Frierson urged seeking lump sum bids and Russell suggested advertisements for per cubic yard quotations.

After discussing the three methods of seeking bids for the dike work, the board unanimously accepted Russell's suggestion which Stieffel endorsed.

The technician said a maximum of 10,000-cubic-feet of material dug from the spoils area would be needed to build the dikes.

He said the Corps permit requires water be drained from the spoils area back into the channel and the dike structure would accomplish that requirement.

In other business at the 7:30 p.m. recess meeting at the commission offices on Hwy. 603 in Waveland, the board:

—Authorized replacing a Port Blenville tractor motor. Webre said the $3,500 engine will be purchased from Coastal Equipment Co. of Gulfport with funds from the port and harbor construction fund;

—Heard a report from Webre that the Stennis International Airport nondirectional beacon on Firetower Road could be calibrated and maintained by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The director's recommendation is based on a letter he received from Engineer Mike Smith of Advanced Developments, Inc. of Bay St. Louis. Webre said he did not know the fees or requirements involved if the FAA would operate the beacon.

The commission has been unsuccessfully trying for several months to find a qualified individual to calibrate and monitor the NDB; —Heard a report from Webre urging the commission to oppose the State Department of Archives and History's recommendation that the county pave some 25 acres (the Claiborne archaeological site) located across a channel from the Port Blenville Terminal to preserve any underground Indian artifacts located there.

AUGUST 29TH THROUGH SATURDAY, SEPT. 4TH.

LABOR DAY REG. STORE HOURS

A very important post in Hancock County will be filled Sept. 11 when county voters go to the polls to elect a superintendent of education.

An invitation has been sent to the five persons who have qualified for this position inviting them to a public forum which will be held Tuesday, Aug. 31 starting at 7 p.m. in the Annunciation gymnasium in Kiln.

This could be a good opportunity for the electors to question the candidates on how they feel about certain issues in the county school system.

A lot of times we hear persons commenting about this or that political office, yet they never make their intentions known to the people who should know.

We are hoping the Annunciation gym will be filled with persons seeking answers to questions.

So please try not to forget Tuesday night, and if you have a question for the candidates or a particular candidate, write it down, so you can submit it, so it can be screened to avoid duplications.

The City of Bay St. Louis is in the process of a big project on the renovation of Main Street.

Traffic is very limited on the street from Beach Boulevard to Second Street during this renovation.

Unnecessary travel on Main Street should be avoided, especially youngsters on bicycles such as the two boys we saw Friday.

Parents of children with bicycles should warn them not to ride up-and-down the first block of Main until it is completed.

There are large pieces of concrete and blacktop being broken for removal and travel is hazardous.

Of course we realize there are some kids unable to read the signs, or maybe understand the meaning. We hope a definition of 'Detour' is given to them by school teachers in case their parents fail to do so.

Many football fans are getting ready for the opening of the Deep South Conference Friday night.

We are told the Tigers, Hawks, Rock-A-Chaws and Pirates are ready to go.

We hope to see you at the games.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

On several occasions you have written about how an ad should be put together. But, could you go through it all, one more time? I Have Trouble Remembering.

Dear IHTR: So do I, and I won't promise this is the last time.

But, to break it down, there are basically five main ingredients or components in an ad.

These include 1) Illustrations, 2) Headlines, 3) Copy, 4) Name or Logotype, and 5) White Space.

Let's take them in order, week by week.

Finally, but certainly not least in importance, let's discuss white space.

Background presents varying challenges to would-be space fillers.

Some try to organize their materials in a highly structured fashion. Others try to completely fill it up. And then some do what seems to get the job done best.

As we mentioned last week, consistency may be important as the pattern. That is, don't crowd the ad one week and do the opposite the next.

The utilization of background, or white-space, may very well reflect your approach to displaying goods in your store.

If the elements in your ads are crowded and cluttered, the impression you convey is that your store is likewise crowded and cluttered. On the other hand, if your displays are orderly and spacious, the elements in your ads should also be well spaced to give the appropriate impression.

And a final tip—use white space to surround, rather than separate related elements in ads that should be tied together.

White space is a natural resource. Don't waste it, but rather use it wisely. Study ads in every publication to which you have access to try to develop a critical sense of how you want your ads to look. Then have at it.

CONSUMER REPORT

A Service of the Consumer Protection Division of the Office of Bill Aldin, Attorney General, P.O. Box 220, Jackson, MS 39205 (601) 354-7130

CONSUMER FRAUD

Elderly citizens long have been favorite targets for consumer fraud, but much of this fraud can be prevented by taking some specific precautions, according to the Mississippi Council on Aging.

"First, beware of 'something for nothing' or 'bargains' almost too good to be true," said Jay C. Moon, MCOA executive director. "There's often a catch, and, unfortunately, many elderly persons find this out too late."

Moon also cautioned against making quick decisions when being pressured by a salesman. "Most reputable salesmen won't pressure you to make a quick decision," he said. "Many types of fraud take place because the buyer or investor didn't take the necessary time to analyze the offer."

The MCOA executive director emphasized that elderly citizens should not deal with strangers. "Reputable representatives who are calling on older persons are happy to provide proper identification, and no person should be permitted into one's home unless the individual is known to the resident or provides proper identification," Moon said.

"If there's any doubt about the validity of the identification, the stranger should not be permitted to enter. Sometimes a telephone call to the organization the individual supposedly represents can be useful in determining whether the identification is valid."

Moon also advised consumers to never sign contracts under pressure.

"Read every word of any document you're called upon to sign, and be sure you understand it. Don't rely on the salesman's interpretation. If you don't understand the contract, have someone you trust explain it to you before you sign it. Be sure the contract covers all promises and commitments you and the salesman have agreed upon. Never sign anything with blanks that have not been filled in," he said.

A popular scheme used with older citizens is having the individual withdraw money from his or her bank account. Sometimes this approach is employed as a "good faith" gesture to gain a large sum of money, or sometimes the person approaching the elderly citizen poses as a bank examiner.

"The simplest advice here is never withdraw funds from your bank account for a stranger," Moon said. "Whenever your bank account is involved, have the stranger properly identify himself in the presence of your banker."

Guarantees can be confusing to consumers of all ages. "Any advertised guarantee should state what the guarantor will do to satisfy the guarantee and exactly who is the guarantor," he said. "Is the guarantee, being made by the seller or the manufacturer? Will the guarantor repair a damaged item, replace defective parts or refund money for inadequate products?"

Each spring and summer, itinerant home repairmen swindle Mississippians out of large sums of money. The basic approach is to charge very high prices for inferior work or work that never is performed. "Again, it's important to deal with someone you know," Moon said.

"If you don't know the person, obtain definite identification. Don't be fooled by companies promising large discounts in exchange for using your home as a 'model' to show other prospective customers. Always obtain a signed contract when entering into a home repair or home addition agreement."

"This contract should contain details of the exact work to be performed, the exact cost of labor and materials, the type and quality of materials, the names of material suppliers and any subcontractors, a guaranteed date of completion, a waiver of lien provision signed by any subcontractors or material suppliers used by the contractor and a written warranty," he said.

"Typically, reputable, local contractors do not require a cash advance for the purchase of materials. They usually can obtain them on credit from a building supply firm that bills the contractor upon completion of the job," Moon said.

"Don't be ashamed to admit that you don't understand any aspect of an offer," he advised. "Also, don't hesitate to consult with a lawyer, banker or a friend before agreeing to buy or invest. A reputable salesman would be happy to have you do this. If the salesman tries to persuade you not to consult another person, you have good reason to believe that the individual is not reputable."

"Few truly good deals are lost because the buyer or investor takes time to fully understand," Moon said. "Look carefully before you leap."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Trent Lott's office bureaucracy prevents personal contact between congressman, constituents

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

Based on the coverage that Congressman Trent Lott receives in all forms of public media: newspapers, television, radio and surveys and newsletters from his Washington office, it would seem that we here in the Fifth Congressional District of Mississippi are indeed fortunate in having such a bright, eager, intelligent, capable and ambitious young man to represent us in Washington.

Because of much favorable publicity, Mr. Lott was the obvious choice of the majority of voters in the district when Mr. Colmer retired. I personally supported him strongly, in every way, over the past ten years.

I am now having second thoughts. Mr. Lott's apparent strong conservative political views and philosophy are only consistent with those of the majority of the people he was sent to Washington to represent.

Appearing to be strongly conservative is essential for being elected to public office in the Fifth Congressional District of Mississippi.

Is Mr. Lott becoming so ambitious for personal fame on a national level that he has outgrown his usefulness to the common people of his home district who elected him to the office of public trust which he now holds?

The man and woman on the street, the ones who actually cast the vote at the ballot box. The farmer, the store clerk, the delivery person, the man at the service station and all the others who make up his constituency. Not just the corporate heads, the civic club meetings, the leaders of governmental subdivisions within the district or other events that often merit free media coverage.

All the people who attend "media events" combined, in person, do not represent a large enough segment of the population to elect a single public official in the Fifth Congressional District.

The fine publications coming out of Mr. Lott's Washington office, the large staff he has there, the fine suites of offices and the staff for each one in Gulfport, Hattiesburg and Laurel, these are all part of the burden on the American taxpayer.

Part of the large deficit in the federal budget. You know, that part that forces our government to borrow between 62 and 65 percent of all the money borrowed in the entire nation this year. That part which prevents you from getting a home loan, automobile loan, business loan or any other type loan at a reasonable rate of interest.

Not only are you paying the above average for the area salaries for the many staff members, you are also underwriting their retirement programs. Not Social Security like the rest of us are forced to live with, but Federal Employees Retirement Programs. These come from a trust fund that will never be in jeopardy because it is guaranteed by you and the U.S. Treasury.

Are we getting adequate service locally for this investment?

Mr. Lott is a staunch supporter of the Social Security System. Maybe it was a simple oversight on his part not to bring charges of gross misconduct against the trustees of these funds when they were loaned out at only about eight percent interest while the federal government was borrowing many billions of dollars from banks and other lending institutions and paying interest rates of approximately 13 to 21 percent.

What would happen if the directors of your local bank handled your money in a like manner?

Have you been able to talk to Mr. Lott personally about a problem you need help with? No, I don't mean a member of his staff, I mean Mr. Lott himself.

As a person having many problems with the Veterans Administration, I have been corresponding with Mr. Lott's office for several years. I have much correspondence from his staff with his rubber stamp signature on it.

I have tried for more than a year to arrange a meeting with Mr. Lott, at his convenience, in one of his district offices. His staff members tell me they do not understand the intricacies of my problem, therefore, they cannot help me. I am not seeking their help but that of Mr. Lott, the man for whom I cast my vote.

It has been my understanding that possibly Mr. Lott is not a veteran himself. Could this be the reason for so little interest in the problems that veterans in the Fifth Congressional District have in their dealings with the Veterans Administration?

If there are a significant number of veterans in the district who are unable to get adequate assistance from the congressman's office when dealing with the VA, then maybe we should all consider electing a veteran to the office of fifth district congressman so that we have sympathetic representation when dealing with the VA.

First aid readiness vital to home safety

Knowing how to give first aid for an illness or injury is an important aspect of home safety.

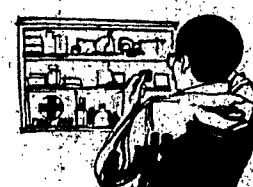

Keep a first aid guide handy so that you will know how to use home medical supplies safely and effectively. The AMA's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care is a good resource.

If possible, arrange for first aid training for the adults and older children in your family. The American Red Cross offers classes in many communities; check your local chapter.

A family medical chart can provide vital information on each family member that you, doctors and paramedics may need in an emergency, such as known allergies and vaccination dates. List important emergency telephone numbers as well, including your doctor, emergency medical service or ambulance service, and the nearest hospital.

Knowing the best route to the nearest hospital can save critical minutes when an ambulance or paramedic team is not available and you must drive yourself or a victim to the hospital.

Emergency medical identification, such as a bracelet, necklace or wallet card, could help to save your life if you are unable to speak because of unconsciousness or a serious accident. This identification is especially important for people who have conditions such as diabetes, epilepsy, glaucoma, or hemophilia, or who have allergic reactions to certain medications or to insect stings.

An emergency medical ID bracelet or necklace is generally better than a card because it is more visible. Ask your doctor, hospital emergency room or local medical association where they may be ordered.

Meanwhile, you can make your own emergency medical information cards for yourself and each member of your family.

Include name, address, telephone number, relative's name and number, doctor's name and number, vaccination dates, any serious medical conditions, medication taken regularly, allergies and any other important information.

NSTL mounts Challenger engine for testing

Another milestone has been reached in the Space Shuttle Main Engine test program at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County—this time leading to the flight acceptance testing of the orbiter Challenger's main engines.

Engine 2014 has successfully completed its first full power level certification test series, according to Boyce Mix, Space Shuttle Main Engine Program resident manager, Marshall Space Flight Center.

The series, which began in May, was concluded late Tuesday with a 595-pound firing, bringing the total full-power series test time to 5,760 seconds to 20 tests.

Of the accumulated run time, 3,905 seconds were at the FPL or 100 percent level.

The three Challenger engines will be rated at the full power level, which means that each engine will be capable of generating 417,000 pounds of thrust at sea level during liftoff.

By comparison, each of the Columbia's 100 percent rated power level engines produces 375,000 pounds of thrust at sea level during liftoff.

"This additional nine percent thrust will enable the Challenger to accommodate heavier payloads such as satellites," Mix said.

The Challenger engines' flight acceptance series is being preceded by the FPL certification test series on non-flight engines at NSTL.

The certification testing provides test program officials with information on engine performance and capability during simulated countdown, launch and flight conditions.

"Inspections and maintenance requirements of the engine are based on data acquired during these test series," Mix said.

This is the third FPL certification test series to be completed at NSTL. Two previous series were conducted on engine 2010. Total FPL certification test time on both engines in 48 tests is 16,092 seconds, of which 11,690 seconds were at the FPL level.

All three of the Challenger engines—2012, 2011 and 2015—are now at NSTL, where the first to be tested, 2012, is installed in the A-2 test stand. Each engine will undergo a three-test acceptance series for durations of 1.5, 120 and 500 seconds before being sent to NASA's Kennedy Space Center in Florida for installation in the second orbiter.

Challenger's first flight is now scheduled for January, 1983.

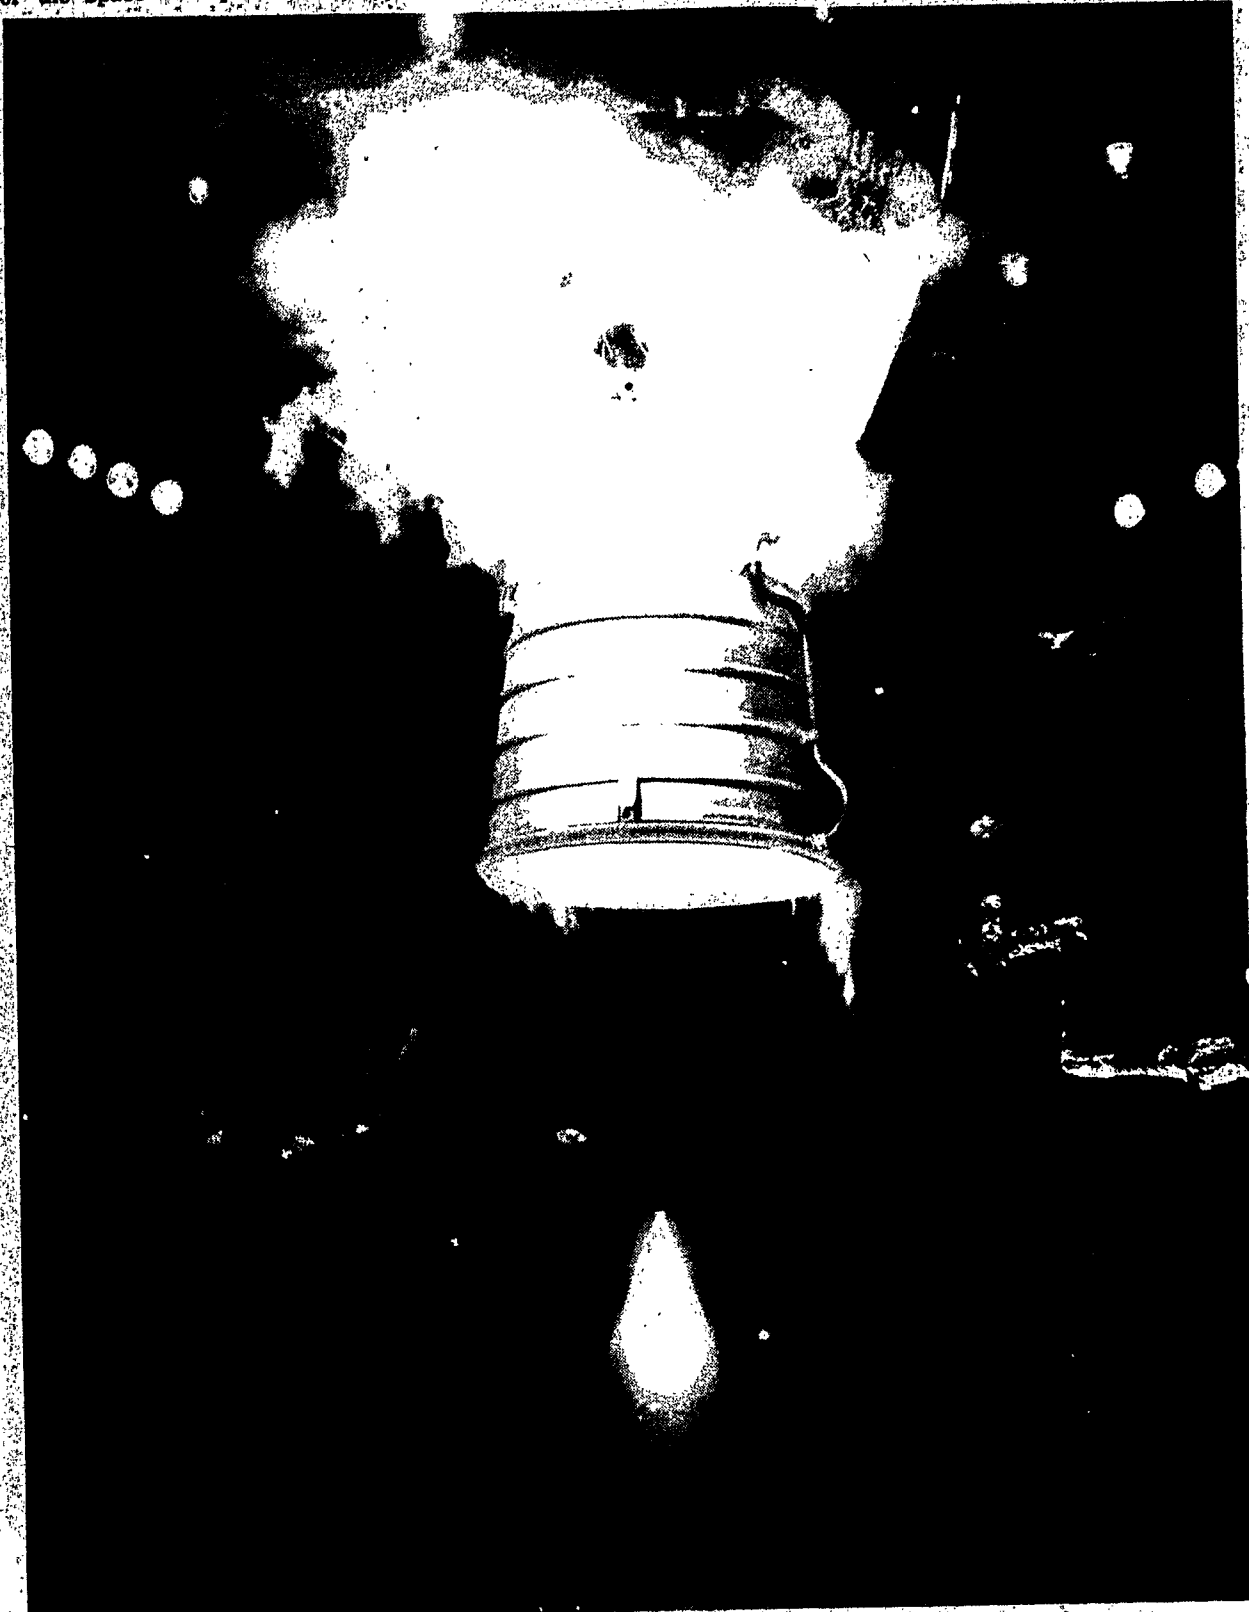

A similar acceptance series was conducted at NSTL on the Columbia's main engines. Those engines have performed flawlessly during Columbia's first four engineering test flights and will be used again for the Space Transportation System's first operational mission now planned for Nov. 11.

The shuttle's main engines, along with the two solid rocket boosters, provide the thrust to lift the orbiter off the launch pad. The engines run approximately eight and one-half minutes into the mission.

Generic brands not always the cheapest

A grocery shelf legacy from France, commonly known as generic food products, is winning a greater share of American food dollars.

A Roper Organization survey conducted in 1980 shows that 63 percent of Americans were using generic products and that 13 percent of them felt generics were equal to or superior to the name brand equivalent.

Generic brands were first marketed in France and were introduced to the United States by Jewel Foods in the Chicago area in 1977. The products first reached Mississippi in 1978 when the McCarty Holman Co. began marketing them here. The word generic comes from the Latin for "class" or "kind." When people buy a can of generic peas, for example, the manufacturer makes no claims for the product other than the fact that the can contains peas.

In terms of wholesomeness, generic products are governed by the same regulations and standards of cleanliness that govern the national brands.

"Generic peas may vary in size, color or texture, but they are as safe to eat as any other can of peas packaged under governmental regulations," said Dr. Julia Barnes, a family economics and management specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The specialist does say, however, that consumers may want to test preferences for generic products on the family before relying on them to entertain guests.

A food Marketing Specialist with the Extension Service said generic products have caught on in the country primarily because producers guessed correctly in the mid-1970s that there was a food store market for products that traditionally had been sold to institutional and industrial customers. The percentage of income that people in this country spent for food also began rising at the same time.

Peas, to stick with the same example, that vary in size and color had been sold to the manufacturers of pea soup and other pea products. Those markets did not care about consistent appearance.

"Because there weren't that many places to sell tons of odd shaped and sized peas, the buyers exercised a great deal of control over price," Rushing said. "When individual grocery budgets began to tighten, the sellers of the less than perfect peas began to suspect that consumers might settle for the imperfect peas at a price somewhat less than what they had been paying and somewhat more than the industrial customers were willing to pay."

Rushing said most generic products are aesthetically different from their national brand counterparts.

"When you buy generic salted peanuts you get halves of peanuts," she said. "When you buy the national brand you get whole peanuts, but at half again or twice the price." The manner in which generics are displayed varies from store to store. Some stores lump them all together on a few aisles while other stores may stock them alongside their name brand competitors.

Rushing and Barnes both remind shoppers not to assume that the generic product is the least expensive. In some instances a store brand or even a national brand will be less expensive, especially with coupons.

Board to amend sick leave policy

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County School Board agreed Saturday that a school policy concerning sick leave should be amended to conform to state law and that teachers in the district should be consulted before a new policy is finalized.

Interim Superintendent William Haddock brought the board's attention to the current policy which was adopted several months ago, apparently without receiving any input from teachers in the system.

"This is in violation of a civil action case filed in 1978," Haddock said about the teachers not being consulted.

In addition, the existing policy which requires a teacher obtain a doctor's excuse for every day of school which they are absent "is in direct violation of a state law" which became effective at the beginning of the 1982-83 school year, Haddock said.

He claimed the state law requires that teachers obtain a doctor's excuse only if they are absent for four consecutive school days or if they are absent two consecutive days directly before or after a holiday.

Haddock also suggested the number of personal days allowed each teacher annually be altered.

However, when he began explaining details of how much personal leave is allowed under state law, he was interrupted by Board President Monvel Cuevas who requested the existing policy be amended in writing.

The board then approved having Haddock amend the current policy so it will comply to state law, retroactively to the first day of the 1982-83 school year.

It also agreed that one teacher should be elected from each school in the district to represent the teachers at the next school board meeting Sept. 4 at 9 p.m. where the policy is expected to be discussed and finalized.

After the Saturday meeting, board member Louie Ladner said the existing policy was adopted "three or four months ago" after being presented and recommended for approval by former school Superintendent Billy D. Sills.

Sills was removed from office last month after he pled guilty to seven counts of fraud-embezzlement.

Also at the meeting the board agreed that one teacher from each school in the district should be elected to serve on a insurance commission which will decide what type of insurance school teachers want to be covered by.

Board members then agreed that all future questions pertaining to employee insurance should be directed to the commission.

The action followed a brief statement by Wilred Wil Gieger, Lamar Life Insurance agent, who informed board members that rates for hospitalization insurance would increase 22 percent beginning Sept. 1.

According to Gieger, the reason for the increase is because the company received $79,814 from the district and then spent some $62,689 in claims.

In other business, the board agreed that all cafeteria equipment should remain on school premises.

A letter from Rhea Scaffidi, newly appointed cafeteria supervisor, explained that cafeteria tables and chairs had been loaned in the past and the district no longer has funds available to repair, replace or clean furniture which is damaged during the outings.

Also Saturday the board:

—Approved allowing the Charles B. Murphy Parent Teachers Organization to conduct a spaghetti dinner Sept. 11, in the school cafeteria at the same time the gym is being used as a poll during a special county school superintendent election for county school superintendent.

—Agreed to view trailer at Hancock North Central Elementary School directly after the meeting to determine if the trailer is beyond use for conducting fifth and sixth grade classes.

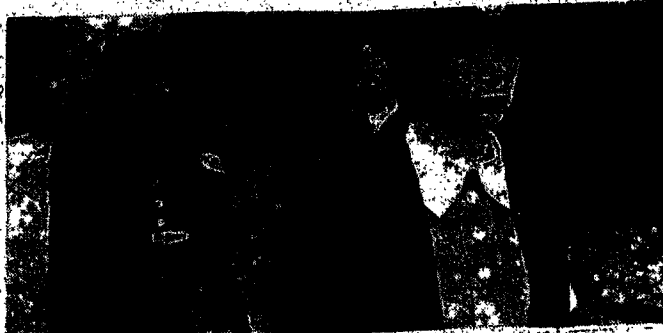

Ray and Brenda Shaw, whose child attends class in the trailer, complained the trailer is not safe for classes.

Haddock said holes line the foundation of the building and air conditioning units can only reduce the heat to 90 degrees.

Rats also reportedly enter the building through a hole in the rest room floor.

Brenda Shaw said student can not leave note books in the room over night because they will be chewed by the rodents.

Water also leaks through the roof she said.

Highway Patrol to ticket roadside relievers, dumpers

Motorist who use Mississippi roads as restrooms and highway rest areas as garbage dumps will soon feel heat from the Highway Patrol, Chief Donald Butler has warned.

Butler has ordered a crackdown on littering and told state troopers to be on the lookout for anyone who throws trash out windows or abuses litter barrels in roadside rest areas.

"We are going to increase enforcement of antilittering laws," Butler said. "State troopers will stop and issue citations to people who throw junk on the highway."

Mississippi law says litterers can be fined up to $500 for throwing paper, glass, tin cans or other litter on the highway. Anyone convicted of littering can be required to pick up litter on both sides of a highway for a distance of up to five miles.

Policing roadside parks and rest areas has also been made a top priority of the Highway Patrol, Butler said.

"These rest areas have been built for the convenience of the motoring public and serve a useful purpose," Butler said. "Our troopers will be visiting them more frequently to prevent abuses."

Butler said he was concerned about reports that residents were using litter barrels in the parks and rest areas as dumping grounds for household garbage.

He said the state has spent large sums of money to make these areas attractive for both Mississippians and visitors to the state. The Highway Patrol will become more active in these areas as a result of the chief's orders.

Butler also warned that troopers will be looking for motorists who indiscriminately park along highways to relieve themselves.

"Special rest areas have been established with restroom facilities and the shoulders of highways are not acceptable sites for performing body functions," Butler said.

"Parking along a roadside is not the proper solution for someone who must relieve himself," Butler said. "The practice is dangerous and can cause accidents, and it is also offensive to other motorists."

"Watermelon...Waa...ater...mel...on...red and juicy to the rind"... that nostalgic cry of the old watermelon peddler, rambling along with his horse and wagon, is a part of my childhood memories of summer along the Gulf Coast and in New Orleans, and watermelon is still among my favorite foods.

Native to tropical and Southern Africa, the watermelon is depicted in Egyptian paintings dating from the building of the pyramids.

It was also grown in European countries for hundreds of years before being brought to America by the early colonists.

Very early writings show that the watermelon was growing in Massachusetts in 1629, and when Father Marquette was wandering along the wilderness along the Mississippi River in 1673, he found the Indians growing watermelons.

A slice of watermelon on a sizzling summer day is one of America's favorite treats, but there are many other ways to enjoy this treat.

We've been truly "watermelon-happy" at our house just now, thanks to Ellie Dwyer, who lives in St. Francisville, La., but is a recent and welcome addition to our colony in Pass Christian Isles.

Ellie had a houseful of guests over last weekend, and for the center of her buffet table she concocted a watermelon masterpiece...she sliced off the top of the melon, then cut scallops all along each side and hollowed out two indentations at each end.

She placed green, red, and purple grapes in the hollows, then in the center she arranged slices of cantaloupe and more bunches of grapes, decorating the whole thing with huge strawberries...truly a handsome sight.

And, since she was going home that next day, she brought the whole business to us! Glad her guests hadn't devoured it!

Even though we shared the bounty with other friends, we still had an abundance of this masterpiece, so...for starters, I diced two cups of watermelon, sprinkled the cubes with sugar (granulated) poured a cup of sherry over, and after an hour or so in the refrigerator, we had a delightful finale to a light summer supper.

I saved some of the rind for pickling, and next day, as I was just about to start cutting up summer squash as an accompaniment to chicken breasts, I remembered a favorite dish of our family cook, Mary, who never believed in letting anything edible go to waste. Watermelon rind, she taught me, is delicious served as a vegetable. so, here's

BRAISED WATERMELON RIND

Watermelon rind, cubed, about 6 cups
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
Dashes of pepper and salt

Trim the green skin from the rind and leave a little of the pink meat. Cut the ring in approximately one-inch cubes, to make 6 cups. In a heavy saucepan, combine the rinds, a dash of salt, and just barely enough water to cover the bottom of the pan.

Cover, and simmer for 20 minutes or so, or until the rind is tender. Drain well, add the butter, and pepper to your taste. Serve this as a vegetable, to accompany ham or chicken or whatever. (Six servings).

A variation: Saute bacon till crisp, remove and reserve. Add a little chopped onion to the skillet and brown lightly, then add three or four cups of shredded watermelon rind (from which you've trimmed the green skin and removed the pink meat).

Cook, covered for several minutes, until barely, barely tender but still a bit crunchy. Season with salt and pepper, and add the bacon for garnish. (Four servings).

Knight's notes

On Monday night, Aug. 23, the officers of the Pere LeDuc Council held a special meeting to discuss the future of the council and what programs the council will implement to benefit the many factions of the church and community.

"The meeting can only be termed as a success," stated Grand Knight Bob Hubbard. "The turnout was nearly 100 percent of all the officers and only a very few missed the meeting due to legitimate reasons. Some of the men present were only notified a short time before the meeting, but made every effort possible to be there. This is only small proof of the willingness and dedication of the elected officers of the council to the Knights of Columbus."

At the meeting, Deputy Grand Knight Mel Estrade, who also serves as council program director, addressed the assembly on "Sure with Service," the theme of the council programs.

The programs are designed to help in five major factions of the church and community: vocations, family, youth, membership, and the council. It is through these programs that the Knights are able to service the people of this area.

Estrade said he will announce at an upcoming meeting the men who will serve as five program chairmen, each responsible for a committee based on the five factions.

After the meeting Hubbard commented, "I can feel a spirit of pride in the council and the men of the council are eager to serve. The programs discussed tonight represent a conscious effort to move the council ahead. We have accomplished much in the past year and we are ready now to progress into more areas of service."

"We also discussed programs beneficial to the council membership which will promote the fraternity of our organization. We have had complaints before by some members that the council has nothing for them to do. We promise that that problem will be solved and ask all members to regularly attend Council meetings and get into the swing of the action. Our next meeting is scheduled for September 13," Hubbard added.

If more Americans employed simple common sense, the incidence of burn injuries would decrease drastically, according to a recent broadcast sponsored by the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and The Prudential Insurance Company of America.

Dr. James Lloyd, director of the Burn Center at Children's Hospital in Detroit, cites certain studies which suggest that home burn injuries to children are often due to poor planning by their parents.

"Every home should be equipped with an adequate smoke detection device," said Dr. Lloyd. "And every family should have a planned escape route from the home. Children should be taught to get close to the floor and crawl rather than stand up and walk or run during a fire."

According to Dr. Lloyd, injuries caused by hot tap water are also preventable. Household tasks can be completed with cooler water enabling water heaters to be set at lower temperatures. Dr. Lloyd estimates that lowering thermostats on water heaters would decrease the incidence of burns throughout the country by nearly 20 percent.

Cooking up a storm

By Kay M. Guire Caire

For very fluffy mashed potatoes, sprinkle with dry powdered milk.

"A-sittin' and sippin'" that's the way to spend these sultry summer afternoons. One of my favorites is Jeanette Bontemps' Strawberry Punch, which I've been happily stirring up since Mary Breath gave me the recipe.

It's a very refreshing, "special occasion" sort of punch very appropriate for a bridal shower or wedding reception, a welcome offset to more "spirituous offerings."

And, of course, you can "spike" it if you wish; for myself, I like it "au naturel."

So, here's
JEANETTE BONTEMPS' STRAWBERRY PUNCH
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1 cup strong tea
2 cups orange juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 pint strawberries
2 quarts carbonated water or gingerale.

Combine water and sugar to make a simple syrup (bring to a boil, then simmer 5 minutes. Cool.) Add the fruit juices and tea to the simple syrup. Pour over ice in a punch bowl, then add the carbonated water, and the strawberries. (25 servings.) Delicious!

Another summer sipper is the Spritzer. For a single serving, about a half cup (4 ounces) of white or red wine, chilled, and a fourth cup (2 ounces) of club soda, chilled, poured over ice in a tall glass.

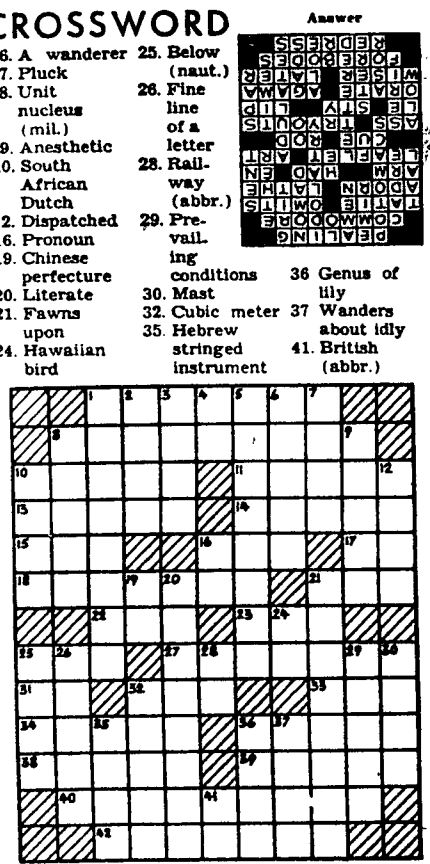

For a dozen servings, combine two fifths of the wine with a few ounces less than a bottle (28 oz.) of club soda, and enjoy!

And there's always our standby, Caire's Creole Gourmet Wine Punch, so smooth and yet so potent combine a fifth each of burgundy, port and claret, along with a bottle of club soda, over ice in a punch bowl.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Part of learning the secret of enjoying the 'abundant life' lies in learning to be grateful for the 'over-abundance' of physical and spiritual blessings that are ours as American citizens.

It is often not until we see the plight of our neighbor that we can really learn to appreciate our own situation.

The following article was written by a friend of mine. He is Dr. Bill Humble, head of the Bible Department at Abilene Christian University.

It should cause you as it did me to stop and count your blessings as a resident of the greatest country that has ever existed in the history of this planet.

The article is entitled "Our Town."

OUR TOWN

Let's visualize the world as a hypothetical town of 1,000 population with all races, nationalities, and cultures represented in the same proportion as they are in the world today.

There are 60 Americans in Our Town, 207 Chinese, 151 Indians, and 98 Africans. But the 60 Americans have a total income nearly as great as the other 940 people.

The average per capita income of the 60 Americans is $4,500 per year, but only $88 per year for the 151 Indians, and $180 per year for the 98 Africans.

There are 259 Christians in Our Town, and these include 160 Catholics and 60 Protestants. But there are also 136 Moslems and 120 Hindus in Our Town.

English is spoken by 90 people. The only language spoken by more people is Mandarin Chinese, and there are 167 who speak Chinese.

There are 303 whites in Our Town, 697 non-whites. There are 80 Communists, but nearly half of the other people are under their control.

The average American family owns 15 times as many material possessions as the other families.

The average American consumes eight times as much oil and gas as the other 940 people.

The average American has a life expectancy of more than 70 years, many other people in Our Town have a life expectancy of less than 40 years.

Half of the people in Our Town will go from the cradle to the grave without ever seeing a doctor, dentist, or nurse. Half of the people in Our Town will go to bed hungry tonight.

The average American family is spending $850 per family per year to defend itself against its neighbors. And it is spending less than $4 per family per year to share its Christian faith with its neighbors.

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

STOPS INSECTS NATURAL- LY

Most soybean growers figure the best way to control insects is with a shot of poison. But several naturally occurring diseases may be present that could do the job for you without the high cost of chemicals.

As the season progresses, diseases like fungi, bacteria and viruses can play a big part in stopping soybean insects. A full plant canopy, in connection with certain environmental conditions, seems to favor development of the diseases.

The diseases many times will control soybean insects such as armyworm, velvetbean caterpillar, green cloverworm and looper. Dead worms will tell if diseases are active in the insect population.

Diseased worms that have died may have a whitish, mold-like growth on their bodies. They also may be black with their bodies filled with fluid. Or, they may look near-normal.

If you find diseased worms, this should tell you may not need to apply insect control chemicals.

When you see diseased worms, hold off treating for a few days to see if the disease will spread to a level that can control the insect population without the use of chemicals.

STRESS FACT OF LIFE
Stress is something most of us would probably rather not talk about. But it's becoming a fact of farm life just like paying the bank note.

Most farmers feel some kind of stress on a seasonal basis, and for some it's a daily fact of farm life, according to a survey of more than 1,300 Successful Farming magazine subscribers.

About 60 percent of the farmers reported stress during peak work periods and 21 percent more felt stress every day, according to the survey. Big sources of stress include machinery breakdowns, harvest, price uncertainties, machinery costs, interest rates, when to market, weather conditions and price uncertainties for farm inputs.

The farmers singled out excessive fatigue, quick temper, "workaholicism," nervousness, increased anxiety and disenchantment with farming when asked to indicate stress symptoms during the past year.

Most farmers said they coped with stress by trying to develop a positive mental attitude. Other means of coping were talking with others, taking a rest break, changing work activity, setting realistic priorities and goals, and getting more rest.

be about trains. Two Little Trains by Margaret Wise Brown starts the story hour. The Little Engine That Could by Walter Piper will be the second book read.

"Choo Choo," a physical activity, will be performed between stories. A flannel board story, "The Train," will be presented and the program will conclude with the song, "She'll Be coming 'Round the Mountain," according to Becky Mitchum, children's librarian.

Monday, Sept. 6 has been announced as the Labor Day Holiday at the University of Southern Mississippi. All academic and staff offices will be closed on that day.

Day classes will not meet on Sept. 6, but night classes will meet on schedule.

Tickets available for Bob Hope show

Born in England, Bob Hope has become a "charter member" of the American family and is now as much a symbol of the American spirit as Yankee Doodle.

"I left England," he says, "when I realized I couldn't be king." But Hope has become king...the King of Comedy.

Hope will have Mississippians laughing on Sept. 16 when Bob Hope in Person is presented at Jackson Municipal Auditorium to benefit the Mississippi Animal Rescue League.

Since the benefit will be held only two days before the Alabama-Ole Miss football game, MARL President Forrest Cox urges supporters to come to Jackson early to attend Bob Hope in Person. The Alabama-Ole Miss game is scheduled for September 18 at 1:30 p.m.

Cox explained that Hope's appearance in Jackson will provide MARL with funds needed to multiply efforts in providing shelter and medical treatment to lost and injured animals.

"Proceeds from the benefit will be used to expand services and facilities and to aid in the League's goal of making the public aware of the suffering involved in overbreeding," said Cox. "I doubt if we could have found a performer who could aid us more in this effort than Bob Hope," he continued.

Tickets for the benefit are available in prices ranging from $15 to $100 so that all Mississippians interested in "laughing along with Hope" and benefiting MARL can attend. Tickets are priced as follows: front orchestra, $100; mid-orchestra, $50; rear orchestra, $30; loges, $50; lower balcony, $30; and upper balcony, $15.

Tickets may be ordered by mail or by calling the Box Office at (601) 960-1535.

When ordering by mail, checks should be made payable to the Mississippi Animal Rescue League and mailed along with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Bob Hope in Person, W. Kessler LTD., P. O. Box 5145, Jackson, MS 39216. Tickets will be processed in order of receipt.

MARL is a non-profit, tax deductible organization.

Fee appraisers honor Joachim

The Coast Chapter of Independent Fee Appraisers has awarded a gift of $500 to the Mississippi Chapter of the Real Estate Educators Association.

The gift was made in honor of Biloxi Realtor and Appraiser Harry J. Joachim.

The purpose of REEA is to promote educational and professional standards of competence and performance among all real estate practitioners as well as to facilitate communication and cooperation among real estate educators. Realtor Joachim is currently serving as president of the Mississippi Chapter of REEA.

Interest earned each year from the donation will be used to award a plaque to honor the REEA member who has made outstanding contribution to the promotion of professional standards and continuing education in the Real Estate Profession. This perpetual award will be given annually in the name of Harry J. Joachim.

The gift was made in Joachim's honor as tribute to a man much respected by his fellow members and other professional organizations. He was the founder of the Coast Chapter of Independent Fee Appraisers and was a charter member and a founder of the Mississippi Chapter of REEA.

Joachim is also senior member and past chairman of the Mississippi Real Estate Commission. In addition, he is president-elect of the National Association of Real Estate License Law Officials and serves also as a director of National Association of Realtors.

Joachim has been named Realtor of the Year by the Biloxi-Ocean Springs Board of Realtors on four occasions, more than any other Realtor. In 1971, he was named State Realtor of the Year by the Mississippi Association of Realtors.

The State Real Estate Library, located in Jackson was named for Joachim in 1977.
